David Amorose carries the ball against the Spartans at Emeryville.

The Tiger defense, led by middle linebacker Adrian Mello, stops the CSD attack.

Galiano had a lot of meat up front in Clancy, Blume, Dang, Farruggio, Riley, and Balma, in the mud at CSD.

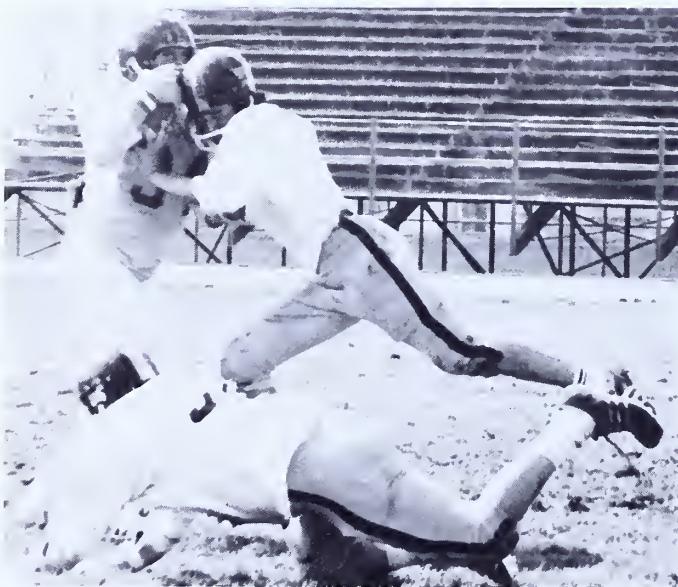

Galiano rolls out to pass with Blume pulling for extra protection.

Ron Davidson, the workhorse of the Tiger offense at running back, always had an outstanding game.

Mike Balma, strong side defensive end, and Herbert Dang, tackle, hit the ball carrier head on at Menlo.

This mustang went to the wrong huddle after this hit from Mello, who had help from Blume.

I actually caught it!

EEUGH!!!

Riley wiped out 3 men, enabling fullback Kurt Engelhofer to sweep for good yardage at Jefferson.

Running back Leonard Gray eludes defenders and officials on a 17 pitch play.

This year Lick represented the country of Singapore at the annual High School Model United Nations Conference held at the U.C. Berkeley campus. The conference was held on February 15, 16, and 17. Twelve students attended the Model United Nations, six being delegates, five being observers, and one alternate. Returning from last year were Luke Perkocha, Arlo Smith, Andy Claster, and Steve Henry. The twelve students that attended gained great insight into the workings of the United Nations.

FLEXIBLE SCHEDULING COMMITTEE

Flexible Scheduling is an innovative system of scheduling which was set up at Lick several years ago. This system of scheduling is based upon 25 modules a day, each module lasting 15 minutes. Classes may meet at different times on different days of the week, and each class may last from 2 to 8 modules. Each student has varying amounts of unscheduled time that he can schedule as he desires. Students often use their unscheduled time to study, consult with teachers, or participate in various athletic programs in the school's gym. The scheduling for the school is done entirely by the Flexible Scheduling Committee which is composed of interested students from the student body. No computers are used; just pencils, paper, creative ability, and plenty of aspirin.

In an effort to bring quality films to Lick, the Student Council, in the fall of 1972, formed the Lick Wilmerding Film Board. Various types of films were shown including science fiction, drama, comedy, and the film classics. One film that was particularly popular was the Marx Brother's film classic A NIGHT AT THE OPERA. This film drew a record of 106 students. The film board members were particularly proud of the fact that the majority of the films shown were profit makers.

"Dare to be true to your convictions, for no matter what one does someone will complain anyway."
"Dare to be criticized and to stand up to criticism, for in raising controversy, one promotes thinking."
"Dare to promote thinking, for in causing people to think, one destroys the seed of apathy."
"Dare to destroy apathy, for in silence men become mere inanimate objects, bodies without mind or soul."

These are the principles which the student council has tried to follow this semester in conducting our business. We may have done much, but much more is left to be done. There is no reason to relate our accomplishments, for change grants immortality to nothing. It is only hoped that those in the future will aspire to these same goals, and go as far as we did in attaining them.

SPEAKER'S COMMITTEE

The Lick Wilmerding Speaker's Committee for 1972-73 was faced with the problem of promoting interest in Lick among Bay Area eighth and ninth grade students. The goal was to increase our school's enrollment for 1973-74. The faculty advisors were Mr. High, Mr. MacLean, and Mrs. Floyd. The committee journeyed to Junior High Schools in San Francisco, The Peninsula, and to other sites around the Bay Area. In traveling groups of two students and a faculty member, the Committee went to over 30 schools, and helped to gain publicity on the radio, television, and in newspapers.

FALL STUDENT COUNCIL

The goals set by Student Body President Ron Aronovsky for the Spring Council were basically three-fold: to attempt to raise student morale through more and varied student activities, to try to replenish the depleted student body treasury so more activities can be possible, and to try to allow the students as much control as possible over their affairs with a fair and open student council. The end result, Ron hopes, will show that these goals were achieved.

EDITOR'S MESSAGE

I have found Lick-Wilmerding to be more than just a building in which there are lectures, tests and homework assignments. Here I have found a school with a very diverse student body and faculty. This year has seen the students split into different factions with each group having its own ideas concerning the operation of such things as Student Government.

This year has ushered in major changes in the basic policies of the school. Things such as the introduction of tuition and a semi-open campus have greatly altered life at Lick. This shall be the last yearbook given to an all male student body. Next September Lick will introduce co-education.

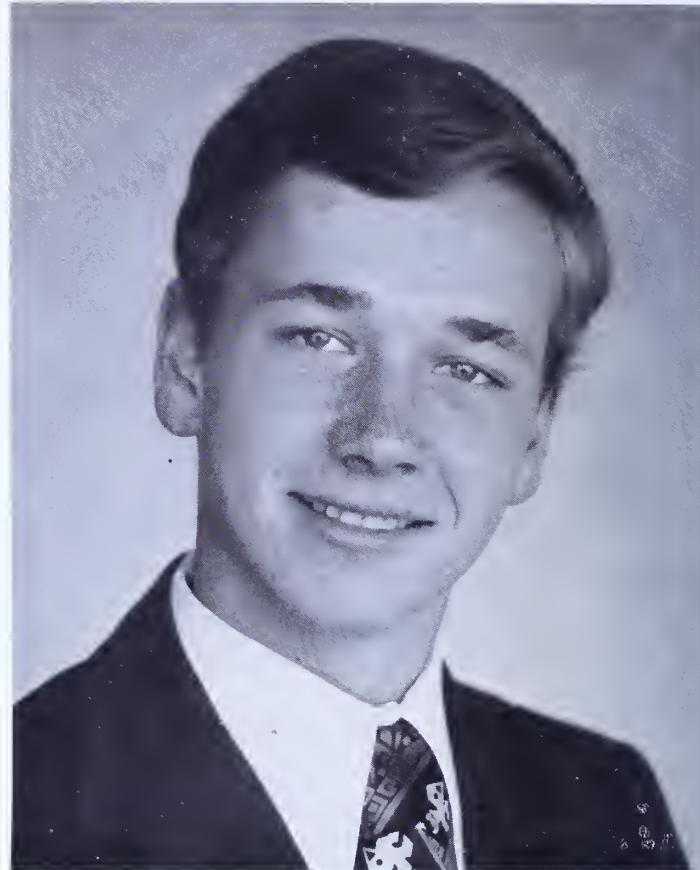

Unfortunately, it would take a daily journal to relate everything that has happened this year at Lick. In this very small book I feel that it is practically impossible to completely cover such feelings as the joys, sorrows, and frustrations, cramming for exams, and awaiting vacations.

Although I feel that a yearbook should concentrate on the Seniors, it should encompass the entire school. I feel that we have done this in the best way that we can.

If you open this book many years from now, I hope that it will help you to recall your long forgotten experiences at Lick. If you smile and recall your friends and good times here, then I know this entire staff's work will not have been in vain.

This yearbook could not have been possible without the following, each of whom I would like to personally thank: Kurt Egelhofer, the winner of the 1972-73 photography award; also, Jeffrey Freedman, Steven Henry, Brian Knapp, the photography class, and Mr. Penn.

Mr. Guidoni came to Lick in February of 1973. He is now teaching French.
